

MODERN SLAVERY ACT 2015 AND TRANSPARENCY IN SUPPLY CHAINS ACT OF 2010

This statement is published on behalf of Clarkson PLC, H. Clarkson & Company Limited and the other subsidiary companies within the Clarkson PLC Group (together “Clarksons”) pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015. This statement constitutes Clarksons’ Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement for the financial year ended 31 December 2018.

About Clarksons

We are the world’s leading provider of integrated shipping services; we work with our clients to achieve their business objectives across all aspects of this complex and dynamic industry including shipbroking, financial services, port services and research. We operate from offices worldwide. For details of all the countries in which we operate, please go to www.clarksons.com/offices.

Our strategy is to offer ‘best in class’ integrated global services underpinned by our culture as a socially responsible business with ethical behaviour as a core value.

Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

Clarksons recognises that slavery, servitude, forced labour and human trafficking (“Modern Slavery”) is a global and growing issue. No sector or industry can be considered immune. We are committed to ensuring that there is no Modern Slavery of any kind within our operations or supply chains.

Clarksons’ Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the “Code”) is a set of principles and guidelines which support ethical behaviour and decision making at Clarksons. All employees worldwide are expected to adhere to the terms of the Code and to engage with any third parties who work on behalf of Clarksons to ensure that they also co-operate with the Code.

If an employee has a concern about any activities in the Clarksons’ business, the Code provides a mechanism by which they can notify management. It is expected that all notifications under this Code are investigated as a matter of priority in order to reach a prompt resolution.

Respecting Employees’ Rights

Clarksons believe that respect of human rights is integral to being a responsible company.

Clarksons places value on difference and believes that diversity of people, skills and abilities is a strength that helps us to achieve our best. Any discrimination based on race, religion, nationality, gender, age, marital status, disability, sexual orientation or political affiliation is prohibited within the business.

We are committed to providing a workplace free of any form of harassment or discrimination and expect our suppliers to do the same.

Our Supply Chain

The supply chain to our business comprises worldwide suppliers providing a wide range of support functions and products including catering, maintenance, information technology, cleaning and security.

Actions Taken

Work is in progress to enhance our procurement procedures so as to ensure that our suppliers, contractors and service providers act ethically and with integrity, and have in place effective systems and controls so that modern slavery is not taking place within their own businesses.

For material contracts in the UK, we are including contractual clauses within new supplier agreements to place contractual obligations on the supplier to ensure it and its own suppliers comply with legislation with regard to modern slavery. We are also endeavouring to take a similar approach with respect to our General Terms and Conditions.

Next steps

Clarksons remains committed to building and strengthening our existing policies and practices to eliminate Modern Slavery and human rights violations in our supply chain. We therefore aim to continue to review the effectiveness of our current arrangements and, where necessary, implement additional safeguards and procedures.
